Hey – this reminds me that we also need to update the webpage on the social cost of carbon since the EO struck those estimates. They were a product of NCEE in our shop.

John and Cathy and team,

Please work with our webteam to create a mockup of our clean power plan site with the following text and prepare a release and blogpost announcing the changes and why we are making them. This is, like everything else, time sensitive. Please make sure the appointees in legal have a look at this. I have Mandy, Brittany, and Sam on this thread as well.

We can/should remove the majority of the clean power plan content but ensure we have much of it saved so we know what we have removed. Eventually we want to have a document "fact checking" the claims to the extent possible, but I don't think scrubbing individual lines of language and analysis and not announcing it will be helpful to anyone, either on the right or left of the spectrum -- otherwise it feels like a comment thread on Reddit. (I say it with love.)

Our goal is to accurately reflect the process we are undertaking and to be up front about the changes. Folks are eager to see when the changes will hit our website, so owning the narrative is key. The press will describe this as a nefarious memory-hole effort, but we are acknowledging the changes and in fact eager to discuss the problems of past practice and how we are working to fix them.

I'll send blog text in a subsequent email.

This is an initial draft that still has some TKs in it (fun fact for those who don't know, TK is a useful placeholder because it's easier to find with word search since it doesn't occur in English words, though who knows what Norwegians do) and I know there's some stuff we have to be careful of in prejudging the outcome--I just wanted to kick this off. Policy Team, please have a look to make sure we have this right and spend fifteen minutes writing out the process part that should be very brief. Legal appointees ought to take a look once we have the blogpost in draft form.

I believe we should simply have links to the clean power plan site redirect to the blogpost while we are mocking up the website overhaul. This blogpost should be ready to post Monday.

Blogpost:

President Trump's Executive Order on Energy Independence

On March 28, President Donald Trump signed an executive order calling for a rollback of the Clean Power Plan, called the Executive Order on Energy Independence. The event signaled the restoration of the rule of law, cooperative federalism, and sound scientific rulemaking at the Environmental Protection Agency.

Why This is Happening:

During his remarks at the Executive Order signing ceremony hosted by EPA, President Trump said "TK." The President underscored the importance of reducing job-killing regulations and noted that the Clean Power Plan was standing in the way of economic growth.

[TK Etc about economic growth and mission statements about implementation TK]

The Clean Power Plan's Own Flaws Hurt Workers and Delayed Effective Regulation

The Environmental Protection Agency has learned many important lessons about why process matters in how it issues regulations that affect American workers and our environment.

Unimplemented Regulations Do Nothing for the Environment: Because of legal challenges, the Clean Power Plan was never implemented. Lawsuits by 27 states, describing the set of regulations as a threat to their economies and the rule of law, resulted in an unprecedented stay by the Supreme Court to halt implementation of the Clean Power Plan. If the Clean Power Plan had been more carefully crafted to allow for cooperative federalism, this would not have been a problem.

Lawless Actions Only Contribute to Economic Uncertainty: Rather than abide by the Court's decision and work with states to reduce their burden, EPA expressed confidence that the plan would be upheld and warned states against abandoning efforts towards implementation. The result was lost jobs and an uncertain regulatory environment. EPA should recognize the widespread damage it can do if it acts recklessly.

Analysis Must Demonstrate that Regulations can Fulfill Stated Goals: Even without the Supreme Court's action, the Clean Power Plan was expected to yield very little for what it cost. For the price of American jobs, EPA had promised a reduction of sea level rise by the thickness of two sheets of paper and reduction of atmospheric CO2 concentrations by 0.2 percent by 2100, according to an analysis by NERA. Emissions growth in China and India would continue unchecked. EPA should never put America last.

"The days of having to choose between being pro-jobs and pro-environment are over," Administrator Pruitt said.

EPA is now tasked with leading the effort to roll back this regulation and contribute to the President's plan to restore America's economy.

How the Process Works:

The very same day that President Trump signed his executive order, Administrator Pruitt signed tree notices of entry into the Federal Register. These notices begin the entire rule making process that allow the rules to be reviewed, receive comment, and eventually undergo administrative action.

The three notices are:

Updating Our Clean Power Plan Site

The actions undertaken by President Trump and Administrator Pruitt mean EPA is reviewing the Clean Power Plan site to reflect the changes, as well as to comply with appropriate archiving requirements. EPA believes the best way to chart a path towards a better future is to acknowledge the mistakes of the past.

I respectfully understand. However, I believe it's necessary to include the Spanish URL in the press release since many people may get to these pages directly in Spanish without going to cpa.gov first.

How about adding the sentence at the end:

The first page to be updated is a page reflecting President Trump's Executive Order on Energy Independence, which calls for a review of the so-called Clean Power Plan. Language associated with the Clean Power Plan, written by the last administration, is out of date. Similarly, content in English and Spanish related to climate and regulation is also being reviewed. Spanish content on espanol.epa.gov is undergoing similar updates.

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

EPA Kicks Off Website Updates

WASHINGTON – EPA.gov, the webpage for the United States Environmental Protection Agency, is undergoing changes that reflect the agency's new direction under President Donald Trump and Administrator Scott Pruitt. The process, which involves updating language to reflect the approach of new leadership, is intended to ensure that the public can use the website to understand the agency's current efforts. The changes will comply with agency ethics and legal guidance, including the use of proper archiving procedures. For instance, a screenshot of the last administration's website will remain available from the main page.

"As EPA renews its commitment to human health and clean air, land, and water, our website needs to reflect the views of the leadership of the agency," said J.P. Freire, Associate Administrator for Public Affairs. "We want to eliminate confusion by removing outdated language first and making room to discuss how we're protecting the environment and human health by partnering with states and working within the law."

The first page to be updated is a page reflecting President Trump's Executive Order on Energy Independence, which calls for a review of the so-called Clean Power Plan. Language associated with the Clean Power Plan, written by the last administration, is out-of-date. Similarly, content related to climate and regulation is also under review.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Matthew, Harvey, Steven,

Thanks for your help on taking care of the website.

I realized that this one also needs to be updated.

If we could just have it redirect here, that would be great:

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Do we have a sense of timing?

Thanks much

Hi Steve,

The top nav includes an link to the environmental topics page which includes a link to the climate change page. If we had taken down the climate change page tonite, that link would have broken.

If we take it down tomorrow, we'll have time to fix that link and others so it shouldn't be a problem.

Let me know if you have more questions.

Hi Lin,

You mentioned today that removing sections of the web site would create broken links. Can you please elaborate on that, e.g., where and how serious would the problem be? Would the topics be removed from the top navigation? Are there any other issues that you are aware of?

No action has been requested. I'd just like to understand the issues.

Thanks.

They are completing it now. It'll be ready by tomorrow I expect.

They had it all prepared last Thursday and I told them to hold off completing it until we decided if it was going to be archive or snapshot or both.

Danny told me today archive only, so they are running httrack on it now.

Hi Nancy,
We have to purge the cache every time we change the page.

Here is the latest version on our server:

<http://origin-www2.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

this will start to show up at

<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

and then once you all publish the news release, we will update it again and purge the cache again.

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Tomorrow morning, I will archive clean-power-plan. Tomorrow during the day, you'll want to rename the ARCHIVED clean-power-plan back to cleanpowerplan using your Perl script.

No that is not what I mean. In order to successfully run the archive process from the webcms, the "wget" command needs to work and get to the content, and not get redirect to energy independence. So Mike has to rename the real site, long enough for the archive process to get carried out.

How can we keep www.epa.gov/clean-power-plan

from getting into search results when Mike renames the existing www.epa.gov/cleanpowerplan website.

Subject: Re: Danny said you can archive Clean Power Plan. How do we keep it from getting into our own search results?

Do you mean keep the temporary archive directory from getting into our search results? www.epa.gov/cleanpowerplan is long gone from our search results, and archive is categorically excluded from default search results. I'm assuming that there are no restrictions on what you can find in archive if you do an explicit archive search, right?

As far as archiving, you will move the content to something like archive.epa.gov/epa/clean-power-plan and I will update the links and move it to archive.epa.gov/epa/cleanpowerplan?

I am tied up from 3:30 until 7:00pm but I can easily have this done this evening before indexing runs. If for any reason I cannot complete it, I will make sure the temporary directory is not indexed. But thanks for the consideration on the timing.

I would do this archiving early in the morning and go as fast as I can. Wouldn't that prevent the indexing?

The URL pattern would be "clean-power-plan" if that helps (changed from "cleanpowerplan").

He understands that you will need to temporarily rename it with an obscure appendage or something to make it not caught by the redirect.

He also understands that it will appear on the Web Topics Published list for a bit.

I told him it would not appear in our EPA search results, so Peter what do you need to do to not feed yourself the (new) web area when Mike renames it?

Hi Nancy,
We have to purge the cache every time we change the page.

Here is the latest version on our server:

<http://origin-www2.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

this will start to show up at

<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

and then once you all publish the news release, we will update it again and purge the cache again.

Thanks

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to
<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to
<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Danny,

We can make the Energy Independence homepage a "Best Bet" and thus the first result for Clean Power Plan for our EPA Search engine if you request it.

We are no longer indexing the old clean power plan website or CPP tool box and have not been since Sunday.

Now if there is other random content related to CPP that is still live on EPA.GOV then yes it can and will come back in our EPA search results.

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to
<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Tomorrow morning, I will archive clean-power-plan. Tomorrow during the day, you'll want to rename the ARCHIVED clean-power-plan back to cleanpowerplan using your Perl script.

While DNC entries don't remove content from full feeds such as we use for Drupal content, they do a fine job of preventing new content from being added.

No that is not what I mean. In order to successfully run the archive process from the webcms, the "wget" command needs to work and get to the content, and not get redirect to energy independence. So Mike has to rename the real site, long enough for the archive process to get carried out.

How can we keep www.epa.gov/clean-power-plan

from getting into search results when Mike renames the existing www.epa.gov/cleanpowerplan website.

Do you mean keep the temporary archive directory from getting into our search results? www.epa.gov/cleanpowerplan is long gone from our search results, and archive is categorically excluded from default search results. I'm assuming that there are no restrictions on what you can find in archive if you do an explicit archive search, right?

As far as archiving, you will move the content to something like archive.epa.gov/epa/clean-power-plan and I will update the links and move it to archive.epa.gov/epa/cleanpowerplan?

I am tied up from 3:30 until 7:00pm but I can easily have this done this evening before indexing runs. If for any reason I cannot complete it, I will make sure the temporary directory is not indexed. But thanks for the consideration on the timing.

I would do this archiving early in the morning and go as fast as I can. Wouldn't that prevent the indexing?

The URL pattern would be "clean-power-plan" if that helps (changed from "cleanpowerplan").

He understands that you will need to temporarily rename it with an obscure appendage or something to make it not caught by the redirect.

He also understands that it will appear on the Web Topics Published list for a bit.

I told him it would not appear in our EPA search results, so Peter what do you need to do to not feed yourself the (new) web area when Mike renames it?

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

No that is not what I mean. In order to successfully run the archive process from the webcms, the "wget" command needs to work and get to the content, and not get redirect to energy independence. So Mike has to rename the real site, long enough for the archive process to get carried out.

How can we keep www.epa.gov/clean-power-plan

from getting into search results when Mike renames the existing www.epa.gov/cleanpowerplan website.

Do you mean keep the temporary archive directory from getting into our search results? www.epa.gov/cleanpowerplan is long gone from our search results, and archive is categorically excluded from default search results. I'm assuming that there are no restrictions on what you can find in archive if you do an explicit archive search, right?

As far as archiving, you will move the content to something like archive.epa.gov/epa/clean-power-plan and I will update the links and move it to archive.epa.gov/epa/cleanpowerplan?

I am tied up from 3:30 until 7:00pm but I can easily have this done this evening before indexing runs. If for any reason I cannot complete it, I will make sure the temporary directory is not indexed. But thanks for the consideration on the timing.

I would do this archiving early in the morning and go as fast as I can. Wouldn't that prevent the indexing?

The URL pattern would be "clean-power-plan" if that helps (changed from "cleanpowerplan").

He understands that you will need to temporarily rename it with an obscure appendage or something to make it not caught by the redirect.

He also understands that it will appear on the Web Topics Published list for a bit.

I told him it would not appear in our EPA search results, so Peter what do you need to do to not feed yourself the (new) web area when Mike renames it?

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache webserver one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to
<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time

3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to

<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

WCSD WEEKLY REPORT – Week of April 27-May 3, 2017

WCSD Helps Update epa.gov to Reflect the Priorities of the New Administration - On Friday April 28, members of the Web Content Services Division carried out the directions of Office of Public Affairs to redirect some EPA public websites to new locations. Working with contractor staff, OEI redirected www.epa.gov/climatechange to a static page explaining “We are currently updating our website to reflect EPA's priorities under the leadership of President Trump and Administrator Pruitt. “ WCSD staff took other steps to clear the Climate Change website content quickly from the Akamai content delivery network so that OPA could issue their News Release referencing the new information. In addition, WCSD staff redirected the Clean Power Plan and Clean Power Plan Toolbox to the new Energy Independence site. WCSD staff also directed the EPA search team to remove some of affected URLs from EPA search results and fixed some issues with other redirects on www3.epa.gov. SharePoint Organization Site Request Workflow - The process through which people request SharePoint sites has been updated. While work and community sites need only go to the Office/Region Site Collection Administrator (SCA) for approval and deployment, organization site requests need to go through a sponsor's approval as well. This sponsor is often a manager -- someone who needs to know about organization-specific sites. The workflow for the organization site request goes to the sponsor before it goes to the SCA for final approval and deployment. (Sally Martiny, 202/564-6067)

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to

So we have this now – just wondering how we should coordinate timing – as we need to send the press release once everything is done and then that link needs to go in the custom 404 notice.

Do we have a sense of timing?

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

I would do this archiving early in the morning and go as fast as I can. Wouldn't that prevent the indexing?

The URL pattern would be "clean-power-plan" if that helps (changed from "cleanpowerplan").

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache webserver one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to

<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Hi Lin,

Do we in OEI manage this Energy Independence web page: <https://www.epa.gov/energy-independence>?

As I understand, we do a lot of work on the framework/back end for many EPA web pages, but most of the www.epa.gov internet pages (including content) are maintained and managed by other program offices. Is that true? I ask because I’m trying to understand OEI’s role for the internet – and especially this particular page – better as EPA web pages are shifting around, causing more press inquiries into the agency.

Thanks,

Annie

Draft:

WCSD web team implements Office of Public Affairs website changes - On Friday April 28, members of the Web Content Services Division carried out the directions of Office of Public Affairs to redirect some EPA public websites to new locations. Working with contractor staff, OEI redirected www.epa.gov/climatechange to a static page explaining “We are currently updating our website to reflect EPA's priorities under the leadership of President Trump and Administrator Pruitt. “ WCSD staff took other steps to clear the Climate Change website content quickly from the Akamai content delivery network so that OPA could issue their News Release referencing the new information. In addition, WCSD staff redirected the Clean Power Plan and Clean Power Plan Toolbox to the new Energy Independence site. WCSD staff also directed the EPA search team to remove some of affected URLs from EPA search results and fixed some issues with other redirects on www3.epa.gov.

Nancy and Matt,

Here are the actions that need to occur.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Once the global redirect is in place (1), the CC site will no longer be findable to the public and instead the visitors will go to
<https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

Hi there –

So we have this now – just wondering how we should coordinate timing – as we need to send the press release once everything is done and then that link needs to go in the custom 404 notice.

Do we have a sense of timing?

Thanks much

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Subject: Website Management: Energy Independence?

Hi Lin,

Do we in OEI manage this Energy Independence web page: <https://www.epa.gov/energy-independence>?

As I understand, we do a lot of work on the framework/back end for many EPA web pages, but most of the www.epa.gov internet pages (including content) are maintained and managed by other program offices. Is that true? I ask because I'm trying to understand OEI's role for the internet – and especially this particular page – better as EPA web pages are shifting around, causing more press inquiries into the agency.

Thanks,

Annie

WCSD web team implements Office of Public Affairs website changes - On Friday April 28, members of the Web Content Services Division carried out the directions of Office of Public Affairs to redirect some EPA public websites to new locations. Working with contractor staff, OEI redirected www.epa.gov/climatechange to a static page explaining “We are currently updating our website to reflect EPA’s priorities under the leadership of President Trump and Administrator Pruitt. “ WCSD staff took other steps to clear the Climate Change website content quickly from the Akamai content delivery network so that OPA could issue their News Release referencing the new information. In addition, WCSD staff redirected the Clean Power Plan and Clean Power Plan Toolbox to the new Energy Independence site. WCSD staff also directed the EPA search team to remove some of affected URLs from EPA search results and fixed some issues with other redirects on www3.epa.gov.

Hi Yvonne,

Can we add one more entry?

May Web Council Meeting Highlights

On Wednesday, May 10, the Web Council met to discuss updating websites, new features, and revised standards. JP Freire started the meeting off by explaining that the 2017 administration is busy reviewing EPA's many websites. Blocks of web content have been moved offline to undergo review (press release). Next, Jessica Orquina went over the updated external link procedure. Linking to external sites that have requests for monetary donations or solicit memberships is not allowed. However, if EPA has a formal agreement in place such as a Memorandum of Understanding, then the external link may be posted. Next, Mike Hessling showed off the new LinkIt tool in Drupal, which enables you to quickly set up a link to a page within a web area. Users can search for links by node number, within their own web areas, or pull up links across epa.gov. Next, Sylvette Garnes gave an update on OMB Memo 17-06, which details 18 requirements that agencies must follow for their public websites. www.epa.gov complied with all requirements, however some other domains and subdomains that come from EPA may not yet be in compliance with these requirements. Next, Angela Shogren briefed the group on the revised Web Standards and asked that everyone review the proposed revisions by May 26. The Web Council members will share these updates with their organizations and report back any comments. (Judy Suzuki, John Shirey)

Regarding www3 pages:

Please note that www3.epa.gov Akamai is set up as a failover. Unlike www.epa.gov , Akamai does not routinely serve content. Akamai only comes into the picture if www3.epa.gov is down. In that case, Akamai will serve the www3.epa.gov content that we rsync over there nightly.

Redirects and .htaccess files do not go over to Akamai for www3.epa.gov. What that means is that until the actual files are deleted off the server and rsync picks up that change – if www3.epa.gov were to go down, and Akamai were to begin serving that content, Akamai will serve the content upon itself.

Another way of saying that:

If www3.epa.gov were to go down, users could put www3.epa.gov/climatechange/kids in their browser and they would get the content that we have been redirecting away from.

The appliance won't delete full feed URLs that are excluded by a Do Not Crawl, but won't process a DELETE for it either. You have to remove the DNC, process the feeds, then restore the DNC entries.

The appliance is being pretty persistent, hanging on to the URLs in those web areas after a do not crawl and a forced recrawl. It's because this is a full feed. I will generate explicit deletes in a feed this morning and remove them.

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

May Web Council Meeting Highlights

On Wednesday, May 10, the Web Council met to discuss updating websites, new features, and revised standards. JP Freire started the meeting off by explaining that the 2017 administration is busy reviewing EPA's many websites. Blocks of web content have been moved offline to undergo review (press release). Next, Jessica Orquina went over the updated external link procedure. Linking to external sites that have requests for monetary donations or solicit memberships is not allowed. However, if EPA has a formal agreement in place such as a Memorandum of Understanding, then the external link may be posted. Next, Mike Hessling showed off the new LinkIt tool in Drupal, which enables you to quickly set up a link to a page within a web area. Users can search for links by node number, within their own web areas, or pull up links across epa.gov. Next, Sylvette Garnes gave an update on OMB Memo 17-06, which details 18 requirements that agencies must follow for their public websites. www.epa.gov complied with all requirements, however some other domains and subdomains that come from EPA may not yet be in compliance with these requirements. Next, Angela Shogren briefed the group on the revised Web Standards and asked that everyone review the proposed revisions by May 26. The Web Council members will share these updates with their organizations and report back any comments. (Judy Suzuki, John Shirey)

Regarding www3 pages:

Please note that www3.epa.gov Akamai is set up as a failover. Unlike www.epa.gov, Akamai does not routinely serve content. Akamai only comes into the picture if www3.epa.gov is down. In that case, Akamai will serve the www3.epa.gov content that we rsync over there nightly.

Redirects and .htaccess files do not go over to Akamai for www3.epa.gov. What that means is that until the actual files are deleted off the server and rsync picks up that change – if www3.epa.gov were to go down, and Akamai were to begin serving that content, Akamai will serve the content upon itself.

Another way of saying that:

If www3.epa.gov were to go down, users could put www3.epa.gov/climatechange/kids in their browser and they would get the content that we have been redirecting away from.

The solution is to delete the content from the www3.epa.gov servers so that rsync will remove it from Akamai. Removing it from Akamai will gain us nothing because the rsync will come right behind us and put it back there.

The appliance won't delete full feed URLs that are excluded by a Do Not Crawl, but won't process a DELETE for it either. You have to remove the DNC, process the feeds, then restore the DNC entries.

The appliance is being pretty persistent, hanging on to the URLs in those web areas after a do not crawl and a forced recrawl. It's because this is a full feed. I will generate explicit deletes in a feed this morning and remove them.

Students' Guide to Global Climate Change: www.epa.gov/climatechange/kids

I am creating a new JIRA ticket and will reply with the #.

I will help with testing.

I have told them it may take up to one hour to complete these steps:

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

<image001.gif>

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

I think you misunderstand what I'm saying, the redirect request we just did encompassed 1 (technically 2) pages. Imagine that request encompassing EVERY page in that appears in the search results for a specific term.

Try it out now.

To accomplish list, I edited the .htaccess file located here:

/public/data/oppeeee1/www3/climatechange

We would not ordinarily do this as this would be customer code but I have made assumption that it is ok to do that in this case.

I found some others on the www3.epa.gov site which are not redirecting to www.epa.gov and thus to the cc page. Need direction on what to do with those.

The appliance won't delete full feed URLs that are excluded by a Do Not Crawl, but won't process a DELETE for it either. You have to remove the DNC, process the feeds, then restore the DNC entries.

The appliance is being pretty persistent, hanging on to the URLs in those web areas after a do not crawl and a forced recrawl. It's because this is a full feed. I will generate explicit deletes in a feed this morning and remove them.

1. Put in redirects related to CC
2. Re start apache web servers one at a time
3. Test some important CC related URLs

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

Try it out now.

To accomplish list, I edited the .htaccess file located here:

/public/data/oppeoee1/www3/climatechange

We would not ordinarily do this as this would be customer code but I have made assumption that it is ok to do that in this case.

I found some others on the www3.epa.gov site which are not redirecting to www.epa.gov and thus to the cc page. Need direction on what to do with those.

The appliance won't delete full feed URLs that are excluded by a Do Not Crawl, but won't process a DELETE for it either. You have to remove the DNC, process the feeds, then restore the DNC entries.

The appliance is being pretty persistent, hanging on to the URLs in those web areas after a do not crawl and a forced recrawl. It's because this is a full feed. I will generate explicit deletes in a feed this morning and remove them.

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you

John and Mike,
We need to follow up on this issue on Monday.

It seems we need to delete the w3 CC content that would still be served up if we go into failover.

But we have to be careful because some of it like GHG is still up.

Regarding www3 pages:

Please note that www3.epa.gov Akamai is set up as a failover. Unlike www.epa.gov, Akamai does not routinely serve content. Akamai only comes into the picture if www3.epa.gov is down. In that case, Akamai will serve the www3.epa.gov content that we rsync over there nightly.

Redirects and .htaccess files do not go over to Akamai for www3.epa.gov. What that means is that until the actual files are deleted off the server and rsync picks up that change – if www3.epa.gov were to go down, and Akamai were to begin serving that content, Akamai will serve the content upon itself.

Another way of saying that:

If www3.epa.gov were to go down, users could put www3.epa.gov/climatechange/kids in their browser and they would get the content that we have been redirecting away from.

The solution is to delete the content from the www3.epa.gov servers so that rsync will remove it from Akamai. Removing it from Akamai will gain us nothing because the rsync will come right behind us and put it back there.

While I feel (somewhat) ok about editing an .htaccess file, I don't think it is within my tasking to delete customer code off the server without specific written direction. Please advise on how to proceed..

Try it out now.

To accomplish list, I edited the .htaccess file located here:

/public/data/oppeoee1/www3/climatechange

We would not ordinarily do this as this would be customer code but I have made assumption that it is ok to do that in this case.

I found some others on the www3.epa.gov site which are not redirecting to www.epa.gov and thus to the cc page. Need direction on what to do with those.

The appliance is being pretty persistent, hanging on to the URLs in those web areas after a do not crawl and a forced recrawl. It's because this is a full feed. I will generate explicit deletes in a feed this morning and remove them.

Is there anything extra we need to do for search?

We redirected a bunch of climate change sites to a signpost page at <https://www.epa.gov/sites/production/files/signpost/cc.html>

and we redirected clean power plan and toolbox to <https://wcms.epa.gov/Energy-Independence>

Steve, Harvey and Matt,

As discussed with Nancy, we would like the content at the links below removed and archived as soon as possible.

The removed climate change pages will be replaced with a custom page that will explain why the change is happening, include a link to the January 19, 2017 snapshot of the EPA website, and a link to the press release we'll be putting out.

The clean power plan pages will be redirected to the newly posted energy independence pages.

We appreciate your assistance in this time-sensitive matter.

Please let us know if you have questions.

Thank you
